M: Oh, what a bad day!

请听第5段材料,回答第19至第22小题。

It was my most unlucky day. Last night, there was a football match on TV. I watched it and stayed up very late. When I got up this morning, it was already 7:50. I washed my face quickly and then I rushed to the bus stop. But by the time I got to the bus stop, the last school bus had already left. So I had to call my father and asked him to drive me to school. There was a lot of traffic in the morning on the streets. When I got to school, it was already 8:40. In the English class, I was too sleepy to hear what Miss Gao said. And I couldn't answer her questions. Finally, it was time for lunch. But when I got to the dining hall, I realized I didn't have any money with me, so I had to borrow some from my classmate, Tom. What an unlucky day I had!

C)请听下面一段独白。

Hello, I'm Linda. Last Sunday my parents went to the hospital to see my sick uncle in the early morning. By the time I got up, my brother had left to take his chess course. I felt so bored that I decided to ride to the museum. On the way, however, it suddenly rained heavily. I soon got wet so I stopped and entered the nearby library. To my surprise, I met two old friends there. I hadn't seen them for three years. We were so happy to see each other that we had a long talk. I felt the rain was not terrible at all.

When I was seven years old, I was hit by a car on my way home. My right arm was broken and it hurt so much that I cried all day long. My teachers allowed me not to do my homework, but I didn't feel like doing so. I practiced writing with my left hand and before my right arm was OK, I could write beautifully with my left hand! I was very pleased. Life is full of the unexpected and sometimes bad things can turn out to be good.
